CARDEN BARES HIS LIFE STORY

Killed Schoolmate Accidentally When 8 Years Old-Some Corroborative Facts.

The shaded playground adjoining the old schoolhouse near Ooltewah, in James county, was where Thomas F. Carden began a career replete with depredations and replete with depredations and which now promises him a long term of years in the state penitentiary or the federal prison. It was while he and John Rodgers were playing during the recess hour that Carden took the life of his little playmate. Carden was 8 years of age at the time and the little fellow who lost his life was a year or so younger. Carden was a year or so younger. Carden was arrested and tried, but was able to prove that the killing was accidental and that it was only in play and while both chums were in the very best of humor that the awful deed was committed.

The death of young Rodgers at the

The death of young Rodgers at the time came as a profound shock to the community in which the little fellow and his parents resided and in which they were loved and respected.

Carden told of the affair on Monday to a News reporter, Jailer Whitcomb and Charley Baker. Carden, it will be remembered, on Sunday confessed that it was while he was present that his pal. Bert Long, murdered Private Charles L. Earle, whose body was found several weeks ago in the woods near Camf Forrest.

Long denied any connection with the affair and has since refused to even discuss it. When seen again Tuesday he still maintained silence as to the event. Sunday morning, when Carden first confessed and while he was at the county jail awaiting preparations to be taken to the scene of the crime, where, he said, he could lo-cate the razor, he stated that a negro

He said that on the morning of his and Long's trial the negro woman sat between them on the prisoners' bench behind the jury box in the criminal court and heard Long say to him: "You have pleaded guilty to robbery, but if you mention that park affair I will kill you."

Deputy Sheriff Charley Baker and other officers who were making prep-arations to take Carden to the post first went to the workhouse where the Smith woman was confined and, callcarden. She replied that she did and corroborated the conversation between Carden and Long which she had over-

Officers Do Not Doubt Story. Mr. Baker stated Tuesday morning that after arriving at the park, Carden, who had, of course, not been there since the crime, directed them to within twenty feet of where Earle had been found with his throat cut, "There is no doubt in my mind," said Mr. Baker, "but what Long and Carden com-mitted that act, for if Long had never been there beforeshe would have had no idea of where the scene of the crime was located.

Carden and Long were arrested some time ago on the charge of robbing a freight car, and while in jail it was learned that they had committed a series of crimes. They were at first sus-pected of killing Earle, but no evidence could be found to justify such a charge and nothing was known of who committed the murder until Carden con

When first placed in jail, Long and Carden were put in separate cells and were not allowed to see each other until they were taken out of jail for the trial, and it was after Carden had pleaded guilty to robbery, which, of course, necessitated Long's doing the same thing, that Long said to Carden, "If you mention that park affair I will kill you, and you should not have confessed to these robberies, for they would never have found us guilty." The officers both in Hamilton county and at Camp Forrest are investigating thoroughly every phase and detail of thoroughly every phase and detail of the confession of Carden.

Auditorium Lease May Be Signed Today

Miss Mary Hopgood, for some years superintendent of the Florence Crit-Ratification of a contract between the city and C. E. James providing for a five-year lease of the lot at the cor ner of Eighth and Chestnut streets, to be used as a site for an auditorium and soldiers' rest or club room, which City Attorney Frank Carden was instructed at the last meeting of the commission to draw in conformity with Mr. James' proposal, is expected to be the principal business transacted by the board of commissioners Tuesday. It will be recalled that the commission last week agreed to furnish $25,000 toward such building, the money to be taken from the fund on hand as a result of insur-ance collected on the old auditorium. It is expected that the government will augment this amount with $15,000. thus making the $40,000 which it is estimated the proposed structure will cost. Local representatives of the committee on training camp activities would not state whether they had been successful in securing sufficient assist ance from the government for the project, stating that they preferred not to give the matter publicity until a report had been made to the commission It is believed, however, that ample funds will be secured for this purpose and that the government will also maintain the building for at least one year, in addition to furnishing the club rooms.
